Death Valley Trip

On April 8 my sister and I took an All-States bus to Death Valley. On the way into the Valley we saw three bands of wild mustangs. The mountains surrounding the valley were spectacular. From the beginning of Death Valley to Furnace Creek Ranch where we stayed was approximately 75 miles. Before reaching Furnace Creek Ranch we visited Zabriskie Point where we could look down into Death Valley. There we took some pictures. Then we went on to the Furnace Creek Inn and visited Bad Water which is the lowest point—279.8 feet below sea level—in Death Valley, where we got specimens of the salt and of course took pictures.

Then we went to Furnace Creek Ranch which is a beautiful oasis in the midst of the barren wastes. It had a date palm orchard and sold dates at a dollar a pound. There were restaurants, stores, museum and camping places around there. We had a very nice room on the ground floor of one of the several houses for tourists.

On April 9 we left for Scotty's Castle which was about fifty-four miles from Furnace Creek Ranch in the northern part of Death Valley. On the way we visited the Ubehebe Crater which is about 500 feet deep and a half mile in diameter. There I picked up some of the black lava. After we got to Scotty's Castle we had to wait for an hour before we could tour the Castle. It was called Scotty's Castle because Walter Scotty claimed it was near his gold mine (non-existent) for which Scotty got lots of money for finding his gold mine which he never found. The castle was really built by Albert Johnson, a several times millionaire, because he wanted a summer home here. Scotty was the caretaker.

er of it until his death. Then the Church of the Gospel took it over as it was willed to them by Albert Johnson. When they couldn't make a go of it, the National Park service of California bought it. Scotty's Castle started out with a simple shed-like building but ended up with numerous rooms, towers, bell tower and an uncompleted swimming pool. The castle is of Spanish motif throughout. Austrian woodwork and German metalwork highlight the Castle. The furnishings were either imported from Europe or made on the premises. Many antiques are found in the Castle and some items are considered priceless. The Castle is considered to be one of America's most unique structures and certainly one of its most famous homes. Death Valley Scotty and his dog Windy are buried on a mountain overlooking the castle.

On April 10 we left Furnace Creek Ranch for Long Beach. On the way we passed the Great Sand Dunes but didn't stop to see them close, so my pictures aren't so hot. We stopped at Crowley's Point, named in honor of Padre Juan Crowley who preached in these parts. This was volcanic country and I picked up some of the red lava that was here. As we came over Towne Peak we saw three or four bands of wild burros, the what they could find to eat was a mystery to me. The highest point we were at was 5000 feet which had a 9" grade part of the way down into the valley. The Air Force tested its jets here as the valley is so long. We had lunch at Lone Pine. Before leaving Lone Pine we took a tour of the Alabama Hills where a lot of western movies were made. The Alabama Hills have many weird formations. In back of the Hills one could see the Sierra Nevada Mountains still snow-covered especially Mt. Whitney, the highest mountain in California.

On the way out of the valley we saw different kinds of desert flowers. I did recognize the Beavertail Cactus. In parts of Death Valley there were many beautifully colored mountains, which were impossible to capture on films which I had. A lovely place to visit if you possibly can do so.

Safety Tip of the Week—Boating Survival:

One-half of all boating accidents take place around small boats or canoes. To insure your own and your family's safety:

— Learn to swim or float.

— Do not go in or on the water alone.

— Wear Coast Guard approved flotation devices of the right size.

— If your craft should capsize, stay with the boat. In most circumstances do not try to swim to shore—unless there is absolutely no chance of rescue and you are certain you can make it.

— Reserve strength by holding on to the capsize craft — panic and body movement wastes body heat, especially in cold water.

— If you live, work or play around water, prepare your self and your family for a water emergency by instilling these three basic ideas:

1. Do not panic.
2. Think survival.
3. Learn C.P.R. and other emergency first aid, from a certified instructor.

Eveline Barrett, Corres.

Phillip Hyam returned home Friday from the Maine Medical Center where he had a heart bypass operation. We wish him better health. Mrs. Hyam doesn't drive a car, so she went on the new bus line and back to visit Phil.

Raymond Tripp came home Tuesday evening from Norway Hospital, and Margaret Stevens is home from Osteopathic Hospital and Herbert Ryerson from Norway Hospital. I hope it isn't something going around.

Barbara Felt, Sharon Scherf and Jenny, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Heikkinen, Livermore Falls, were callers at the Lawrences.

Joe and Laura Kalinowski came to "Big Rock", May 23. Stanley Ukelele drove the truck up for Joe and will return to Connecticut on Tuesday. I knew Joe just needed a nudge to get going.

Eveline Barrett called on Ruby Emery to get a book about Pinhook and lines, also stopped a minute at James Knights.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles "Pete" Collette came to their camp at Lake Thompson, May 19. They formerly lived at Trap Corner Garage.

Joe Barrett has been sick this week, but he is better as I write these items. Cold.

Mr. and Mrs. "Root" Lawrence were at Dr. Master's Lewiston, Saturday.

Greenwood City

Mrs. Colista Morgan, Corres.

There is a sweetness to May's last days that I never notice at any other time of year. The whole green world is full of fragrance.

In the fields this week, I walked through orchards that I could smell as well as feel. There was strength in the grass, reaching toward the sun. The boughs now rustle with leaves and are heavy with blossoms. Did you ever examine an apple blossom? It is indeed a tiny rose, five petaled and full of fragrance.

As I walked up the mountain, I looked far across the valley, to the green fields, the green woodlands, and the shadows in the valleys. Palpable to the ear were the bird songs vibrating the air. With such a picture I felt my senses tingle with the season, as I looked at the rounded hills, with their green growth soft and lush across the friendly land. Even the rocks were alive with creeping tendrils and vines.

The one brook of the hill side sang with running water, for not yet has it felt the thirst of summer.

This time in May is the last of blood roots but sweet with violets. I watched the crow drive the raven and marveled at their antics until the raven vanished across the pond. Then what should drive the crow but a kingbird. He would attack without hesitation and nearly as adept as a swallow. He'd dive like a jet fighter screaming until, crow, this time vanished. I had always believed the kingbird to have more courage per ounce than any other bird until last summer when a hummingbird put the kingbird to rout. He didn't stay to argue too long a time.

The bobolinks are back and greeted me with their bubbles. Their notes tumbled out with irrepressible joy in an apparent effort to jump over each other.

The woodchuck whistled from the second field, as I made my way toward Mosquito Lane but today it was Blackly Lane. I had no desire to linger here among them.

When I entered the house, I looked from my kitchen window and sure enough both male and female orioles were in the tree and each on a half orange. There isn't really another bird like them.

How drab would May and June be if we didn't have them. She ate, took her string from near by and flew away. He stayed to feast a little longer. He is not a weaver. His special mission is to make music and he has an infinitely varied repertoire. Between songs he shows off his beauty.

The miracle of buds, the rush of bloom, the wonder of spring, a time to look and listen and to ponder on many questions.

GOULD ATHLETES HONORED

LAST FRIDAY EVENING

On Friday night, May 23, a special banquet and awards program was held to honor those Gould Academy athletes who competed this spring. The dinner, featuring steamships of beef, was held in Gehring Hall dining room and served as a fitting prelude to the awarding of letters and trophies by the coaches.

Headmaster Donald W. Fudge, head lacrosse coach, presented letters to the following: Crowell Baker, Cedarhurst, N. Y.; Greg Banker, Baltimore, Md.; Peter Brennan, Bronxville, N. Y.; Glenn Flinn, Lansing, N. Y.; Jeff Holmes, Newburyport, Mass.; Scott Hurd, Bethel; Steve Leonard, Worcester, Mass.; Luke Markovich, West Baldwin; John Parent, Mexico; Todd Pakulski, Livermore Falls; Ted Prime, Glens Falls, N. Y.; J. C. Pritchard, Bryant Pond; Bob Ragsdale, Rockford, Ill.; Greg Richmond, Andover, Mass.; Frank Sanchez, Miami, Fla.; Eric Simpson, Thomaston; Mark Smith, West Simsbury, Conn.; Joel Testamata, Dhanran, Saudi Arabia; and Steve Wuori, Andover. Managers' letters went to Eileen Cole, Brunswick, and Jenny Bigelow, Manchester, N. H.

Trophies were awarded to Guy Sturgis for best defenseman; Steve Leonard, most improved; and Joel Testamata, MVP. A special award was begun this year by Mrs. Judy Merrick, in memory of her late husband, Peter Banker, an All-American lacrosse player at Johns Hopkins University, and to be given each year to the "unsung hero" of the team, the individual who provides the most spirited, enthusiasm, hard work and dedication toward the total team effort. This year's winner was senior Greg Banker, son of Mrs. Merrick and Peter Banker, a most fitting beginning for this annual award.

Coach Charles Hurd then made his softball awards, presenting letters to Patti Baiocchi, Dayville, Conn.; Mary Cross, Sewickley, Pa.; Sarah Disston, Nassau, Bahamas; Missy Easton, Rockport; Eleanor Heath, Hopkinton, Mass.; Martha Hale, West Bethel; Wendy Hurd, Bethel; Suzie Routhford, Highland Park, Ill.; Nuria Sanchez, Miami, Fla.; Lydia Sawyer, Standish; Ju-

Track was started this spring, with a limited number of boys who trained at Gould and with the Telstar track team. Coach John Wight awarded letters to Al Driscoll, Eielson AFB, Alaska; Matt Isham, Albany; and John Rodewald, Pittsburgh, Pa. He stated that the good start these and six others who participated had this year, could well mean that a full track team would be competing next year.

Varsity tennis coach Bill Pooley awarded letters to John Birkett, Lincoln, Mass.; Dan Chow, Hong Kong; Alain Crepin, Roubaix, France; Amy Eisenberg, Berlin, N. H.; Scott Fithian, Hingham, Mass.; Jim Hirschberg, Los Angeles, Calif.; Jeff Scott, Los Angeles, Calif.; Dino Slayton, Bronx, N. Y.; Ute Welsh, Versmoed, West Germany; Sarah Williams, Rochester, N. Y.; and Peter Winarick, New York City. Most improved was Alain Crepin and MVP, Peter Winarick.

Athletic Director Erle Morse and JV tennis coach Lynda Chandler then awarded certificates to 18 JV tennis players who competed during the season. Morse then awarded a silver bowl to Eileen Cole, Brunswick, who was voted "Manager-of-the-Year" for the second year in a row. He also made another award, one that was

NEARLY 200 ATTEND MOSES MASON BIRTHDAY PARTY

Approximately 200 persons attended the birthday party held Sunday afternoon in the Moses Mason Museum commemorating the 191st anniversary of the birth of Dr. Moses Mason. The affair was held in conjunction with the Faye Taylor Memorial Art Show. Dr. Mason was born June 2, 1789, in Dublin, N. H., and moved to Bethel with his family when he was 10 years of age. He later became a physician, a justice of the peace, selectman, county commissioner, Member of Congress, Governor's Council and a highly successful businessman. He married Agnes Stray of Newfield in 1813 and began his home on Broad Street that same year. The Masons were a popular couple and newspaper accounts indicate that they often entertained in their home.

The Doctor and Mrs. Moses Mason were convincingly portrayed by Ernest and Betty Perkins who were dressed in period costume. Ernest Perkins is a Mason descendant although the Doctor and his wife had no children.

Local artists Sue Wright, Don Bennett, Helen Morton and Carol Gersen, spent the afternoon sketching various features or exhibits in the period room through which visitors were allowed to roam freely just in the days of the Masons. Mrs. Nell Valentine quilted in the parlor.

An attractive birthday cake made by Diane Howe was the centerpiece of the dining room while strawberry punch was served in the winter kitchen. Members of the Museum Committee, Frances Harding, Judith Haskell, Floribel Haines, Marge Noll and Agnes Haines, dressed in period costume served the refreshments.

Following this preliminary designation, the local governing body or town meeting will have 45 days to disapprove of the project if the town feels that the project is not in the best interest of the community.

William Cousins was elected moderator of the meeting and facilitated discussion of the project by the approximately 50 local residents at the meeting. Many questions were asked and although no vote was taken, most everybody in attendance seemed supportive of the project.

Following the special town meeting, the Board of Selectmen met in regular session at the Fire Station.

Garrett Bonnema was appointed to a two year term and Jane Hosterman was appointed to a three year term on the Law Enforcement and Community Safety Committee. Richard McCann was appointed as a Special Police Officer and he will be working this summer with the Law Enforcement and Safety Committee on implementing a neighborhood watch program in the community.

Out fishin',
A feller isn't thinkin' mean
Out fishin',
His thoughts are mostly good and clean

Out fishin',
He doesn't knock his fellowmen,
Or harbor any grudges then;
A feller's at his finest when
A feller isn't plotting shemes

Out fishin',
He's only busy with his dreams
Out fishin',
His liver is a coat of tan,
His creed—to do the best he can.

Out fishin',
A feller's always mostly man
Out fishin',
A feller's glad to be a friend
Out fishin',
A helping hand he'll always lend.

Out fishin',
The brotherhood of rod and line
And sky and stream is always fine;
Men come real close to God's design

Out fishin',

Letters to the Editor

May 28, 1980

To the Editor:
One year ago almost to the day, residents of the Telstar district were horrified when five of their teenagers were drowned in an alcohol related automobile accident. Everyone was crying out for "something to be done" to save our youth from this self destruction.

Since that time many forces have been working to answer these cries. As the problem has been studied, one factor which has surfaced loud and clear is that the adult population holds the key to solving this problem. When children see the adults, whom they respect and look to as their example, celebrating with alcohol everything from the healing of a torn hangnail to a promotion, they develop the idea that one must drink alcohol in order to properly commemorate a happy or sad occasion. If a teenager wants liquor, he does not have to look far before he finds someone of age to provide it.

The Great Keg Kaper is an excellent example of the careless, thoughtless manner adults employ to "help our children". The concept of the Treasure Hunt is great, but having the prize a keg of beer is clearly in conflict with what we are "teaching" our children. It is ironic that this should be planned for the very anniversary date of the tragedy one year ago.

It is time people that you stop looking for scapegoats elsewhere and take a long hard look at the attitudes and guidance our youth are learning from you as regards alcohol use. Attitudes toward alcohol and its use are learned primarily from parents. As parents, you have the responsibility to guide and support your children physically, emotionally, spiritually and mentally toward becoming well adjusted responsible adults.

You would never shirk this responsibility and allow your child to walk around with a broken arm—why then are you so lax with the example you set for your child—they take their cues from you and the old saying "Do as I say, not as I do" does not work.

Wake up and accept your responsibility before it is too late.

Andover Public Library announces that summer hours will take effect May 27. The hours will be Tuesday and Saturday from 1:30-4:30 p.m. and also on Thursday evening, 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. The Bookmobile was in town last week with a new supply of books. Andover is allotted 40 works of fiction, and 40 childrens books, as well as five books in large print. The State Library has a program for the visually impaired involving the distribution of large print and talking books. See the librarian for more information on the program. The Library trustees and Librarian Margaret Learned extend their sincere thanks for all the recent donations of books to benefit the Andover Public Library. It would be difficult, if not impossible for the book committee to appropriately meet the acquisition needs of the library without the support of many community friends. Donations are always welcomed. If occasionally books are donated which do not fit current needs or which duplicate existing works, they are placed in storage for later distribution. Again thanks for your continued interest, support and thoughtfulness.

Andover Planning Board's next meeting will be held May 29 at 7 p.m. at the town office.

FAYE TAYLOR MEMORIAL ART SHOW DRAWS FAVORABLE RESPONSE

The week-end art show at the Moses Mason Museum, which was named in memory of Faye Taylor, drew a favorable turnout to view paintings, prints and student art work from S. A. D. #44 schools and Gould Academy. The total attendance at the event was estimated at 350 or more. Over 130 exhibition pieces were on hand for the first Memorial Day week-end exhibit by the Bethel Historical Society.

Kent Taylor, Director of Development for Westbrook College in Portland opened the exhibition on Sunday.

In his comments about the Society's special exhibition, Mr. Taylor said his mother "would be particularly pleased with the recognition given to her through the creation of an exhibition of this nature and would be especially pleased that the exhibition has served as a vehicle for the talent of so many of the region's younger students of art. When my mother returned to Bethel in the early 1950's she was struck by the need in a predominantly rural state for greater opportunities for the young people in the region to gain an awareness and appreciation for natural beauty which is so much a part of the landscape of Maine. It would have given her a great deal of satisfaction to see so many of the landscape works that are present in today's exhibition."

Judith McLaughlin of West Paris won the Faye Taylor Landscape Award presented by the Bethel Savings Bank. Paul Cook from Gould Academy won first place in the senior division and Karen Vitale of Bethel was the first place winner in the elementary division of student artists.

Other student artists who received awards and cash prizes were: Alain Crepin, second place in the senior division, and Brent Bachelder, a Telstar Middle School student, was third. Alain Crepin is an exchange student from France studying at Gould Academy. In the elementary level, Paul Crommett won second place and Scot Stevens was third, they are respectively, a first grade student at Ethel Bisbee School in Bethel and a fifth grade student at Crescent Park School. The Bethel Historical Society presented cash awards to the student winners.

Organizers of this exhibition were pleased because of the wide cross section represented by the persons who came to see the week-end exhibition.

UMW TO MEET THURS. JUNE 5 The United Methodist Women will be meeting on Thursday, June 5, at the home of Mrs. Hulda Stevens, not at her summer cottage as originally planned. Mrs. Arsenault's introduction to foods class had an interesting experience this week. The group roasted two wild ducks shot and frozen by Eugene Osgood, a member of the class. The menu included the roast duck, fried rice, green peas and biscuits. The class thought that you might like to try the recipe for your family.

Glazed Roast Duck

2 or 3 oranges
2 or 3 onions
1 duck
Whole cloves
Juice of 1 orange
1 c. currant jelly

Quarter enough oranges and onions to fill cavity of duck. Place one clove in each quarter of the duck, stuff cavity with oranges and onions. Pierce skin with fork. Mix orange juice and currant jelly; heat through. Place duck on rack in roasting pan. Sunday River

Mrs. R. M. Fleet, Corres.

Sent in by Eva Yates:
A cool but beautiful Monday morning. Some are getting ready to go to see parades—some are entertaining company for the week end—some are just farming and still others are getting ready to have a big cook out. What ever the job we hope all are happy. The Yates's have all had their "Go Sleeves" on and have kept them on the "Go" all week. Why stay home when you can go places?

Monday, May 19—Peggy Blake, Russell and Eva Yates went to Hollis Center and visited and had dinner with the Donald Haskells.

In the afternoon we went to Gorham, Maine, and visited a Rabbitry—there to North Windham to visit another Rabbitry. It's fun to see the different kinds and how people care for them. Viva Whitman went with us and Darnita Yates baby sat my dog Crickett. A very enjoyable day. Tuesday, we only went to town.

Darnita Yates has made several calls on Gram and Uncle Joe Yates lately.

Mrs. Lina Reynolds has been visiting her daughter and family, the Eddie Daves, several days.

Wednesday it was different—we were all up with the crows preparing to go on a trip to Union, N. H. Martha and Elvira came from Oxford and they—Peggy Blake, Russell and yours truly left about 8:30 a. m. with sandwiches, cookies, etc., to have a visit and a picnic dinner with our cousin and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Edwards in Union, N. H. It was a lovely sunny day and everything so fresh and green with lots of lovely forsythia all in bloom. Mrs. Edwards added drinks of tea and coffee and custard pie as only she can make to our sandwiches etc. and we had a feed fit for a king. Eva, Henrietta and Arthur are all the same age in September, November and December. It was a day long to be remembered. Thursday—it's not likely we were home—we three went to Gorham, N. H., shopping at Rich's. They were having a sale. Friday, Peggy spent the day with Bryce and Barbara Yates and after supper, Peggy, Joe and Eva went to the cemetery at West Paris.

How the wind blew all day Sunday and it was cold.

Richard Morton of Raymond was in town Tuesday, May 20, tuning pianos. He tuned one for Russell Yates and two for Bear River Grange.

Mrs. B. H. Yates and Darnita visited the Arthur Myshalls in Mexico on Saturday.

The new Memorial week end has come and gone. Expect a lot of people will wait before putting live plants on their loved ones graves until after the 29th or full of the moon. While I was taking James to Lewiston Monday to take a bus back to Bangor, Frank picked a bouquet of purple lilies and put it in the middle of the dining room table. As I sit here the fragrance is so pleasant. We had a lovely week end weatherwise, but Monday and today the winds blew so one needed a sweater to work outdoors. The flowering apple trees seem to be at their peak and are just beautiful this year. The Jack-in-the-pulpit has once again come here—some small and some large ones. The apple, plum, and pear trees have been putting out their fragrance of spring. Isn't it awe-inspiring the resurrection of the trees and plants each year. Yes, some do tend to winter kill but always some other plant will fill its place.

Dr. and Mrs. Leonard Shaw had a get-together at their home they are building. This was the 24th and about 50 attended where they were treated to an outdoor barbecue. C.; his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Miles Coon and two children, Long Island, N. Y., and his brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. David Shaw and children, Braintree, Mass.

Becky's grandmothers, Mrs. Eva Keniston and Mrs. Elsie Davis; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Keniston; sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bangs and three children; brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Keniston and two children, and brother, Peter. This was all of their immediate families except Becky's twin sister, who is now living in England. There were also many others present. The weather was perfect Saturday.

Saturday morning, George went down to get his brother, James, who came in on the bus, Frank went down to help our son, Frankie and family move and I tried to get some work done around the house. Frank's mother, Mrs. Thirza Gibson, and sister and husband, Bobby and Eddie Pevear, came for a visit and an outdoor supper.

NUCLEAR POWER IN MAINE?

Every citizen in Maine has a chance to vote on Sept. 23 for or against nuclear power. Some would like safer and cheaper energy. Yes, in the long run, hydro-electric power is less expensive in Maine than nuclear power at the Maine Yankee Nuclear Power Plant at Wiscasset. And the cost of an accident is hardly ever considered.

The Western Maine Nuclear Referendum Committee is addressing the issue of nuclear power in Maine. They are having an organizational meeting on Wednesday, June 4, at 7:30 p. m. at the Norway Savings Bank. Anyone interested in reaching out and educating the voters in your community is urged to attend. Lots of information will be available on nuclear power and on alternative energy sources. Bumper stickers and handouts will be available for anyone who has use for them. A member of the Maine Nuclear Referendum Committee will attend the meeting as a resource person. Come and show your care.
